Declares.

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington.—The democratic interpretation of the various debated clauses of the league of nations covenant will be explained in detail in further campaign statements by President Wilson, according to present White House plans.

The president will carry on what democrats term an educational campaign, telling the country just what he believes the framers of the league had in mind when they wrote it.

Meanwhile Governor Cox and other leading democrats will demand from the stump that Senator Harding elaborate his position on the league and treaty.

This program, arranged here recently by administration democrats and E. H. Moore, personal friend of Governor Cox, will make the league the overshadowing issue of the campaign, democrats hope.

In his first campaign statement, Wilson declared the election is to be a "genuine national referendum" and that the whole world is waiting "for your verdict."

The president said the country "has been grossly misled" on the treaty and league and their opponents have been left to "invent an 'Americanism' of their own which has no foundation whatever in the authentic traditions of the government."

The text of the appeal follows:

"My Fellow Countrymen:
The issues of the present campaign are of such tremendous importance and of such far reaching significance for the influence of the country and the development of its future relations and I have necessarily had so much to do with their development, that I am sure you will think it natural and proper that I should address to you a few words concerning them.

"Everyone who sincerely believes in government by the people must rejoice at the turn affairs have taken in regard to this campaign. This election is to be a genuine national referendum. The determination of a great policy upon which the influence and authority of the United States in the world must depend, is not to be left to groups of politicians of either party, but is to be referred to the people themselves for a sovereign mandate to their representatives. The duty is to instruct their own government what they wish done.

"The chief question that is put to you is, of course this: Do you want your country's honor vindicated and the treaty of Versailles ratified? Do you in particular approve of the league of nations as organized and empowered in that treaty? And do you wish to see the United States play its part in the world?

"You have been grossly misled with regard to the treaty and particularly with regard to the proposed character of the league of nations by those who have assumed the serious responsibility of opposing it. They have gone so far that those who have spent their lives as I have spent my life in familiarizing themselves with the history and traditions and policies of the nation must stand amazed at the gross ignorance and impudent audacity which has led them to attempt to invent an 'Americanism' of their own which has no foundation whatever in any of the authentic traditions of the government.

"Americanism as they conceive it reverses the whole progress of the last few tragical years. It would substitute America for Russia in the policy of isolation and defiant segregation. Their conception of the dignity of the nation and its interest is that we should stand apart and watch for opportunities to advance our own interests. Involve ourselves in no responsibility for the maintenance of the right in the world or for the continued violation of any of the things for which we entered the war to fight.

"The conception of the great creators of the government was absolutely opposite to this. They thought of America as the light of the world, as created to lead the world in the assertion of the rights of peoples and the rights of free nations, as destined to set a responsible example to all the world of what free government is and can do for the maintenance of right standards, both national and international. This light, the opponents of the league would quench. They would reduce the United States to a subordinate role in the affairs of the world.

"Why should we be afraid of responsibilities which we are qualified to sustain and which the whole of our history has constituted a promise to the world we would sustain? This is the most momentous issue that has ever been presented to the people of the United States and I do not doubt that the hope of the whole world will be verified by an absolute assertion by the voters of the opinions of the determination of the United States to live up to all the great expectations which they created by entering the war and enabling the other great na-

LITHUANIAN TROUBLE ENDS

Poles Secure Promise to Keep Russians From Passing
Thru Lithuania.

London.—The Russian soviet government has reached its most "extreme crisis," according to a correspondent of the Manchester Guardian, recently in Moscow.

The correspondent said the Russian people were crying for peace at any price and that they were ready for another government.

Warsaw.—Consternation in the Russian ranks is increasing, according to the Polish communists today.

Polish cavalry has destroyed a soviet division and near Horodyszcze an entire brigade surrendered, the communists said.

London.—Enemies of bolshevism were crashing through the soviet armies on two fronts today.

Rumors from Scandinavian countries indicated Russian affairs were in a turmoil with strikes and hunger adding to the difficulties of the soviet rulers.

A military statement from Warsaw today said Polish troops were almost unhampered in their advance eastward. The communists said the Poles had occupied the city of Novorodok while on either side the lines had advanced from 50 to 100 miles with the bolsheviks suffering heavy losses.

Twenty-six soviet divisions were destroyed, according to the statement, and the booty falling to Polish troops reached enormous totals. Impediments of all sorts were discarded by the Russian troops, clothing, weapons of all sizes and ammunition falling to the pursuers.

The number of prisoners in the last Polish drive was announced as 42,000 while no attempt had been made to itemize the booty.

General Pilsudski, head of the Polish government, was reported to have taken the field personally to make the attack as effective as possible.

In the Crimean region the bolsheviks were disorganized with General Wrangel's and other anti-soviet forces penetrating deep into southern Russia. Reports from that section also told of strikes and famine in Russia. Attempts by the soviet leaders to recruit more troops were said to have failed.

London.—A Reuters dispatch from Warsaw today said Poland and Lithuania had concluded an armistice.

Announcement of such an agreement had been expected in view of the fact that Poland had discontinued her efforts to seize Vilna, the Lithuanian capital. Polish troops were within striking distance of Vilna but halted while the main offensive further south was directed to the east against the bolsheviks.

With the conclusion of an armistice, Lithuania was to agree that bolshevik forces would not be permitted to enter the country enroute to Poland.

LEAGUE WILL END
WAR, WOMEN HEARCox Confident That New Voters
Will Endorse Wilsonian Treaty.

By United Press Leased Wire
Dayton, Ohio.—The campaign has developed into "a solemn referendum on the treaty of peace with its proposals for a league of nations to prevent future war," Governor James M. Cox told a delegation of the league of women voters at his home, Trails End, here today.

After asserting that ten years ago anyone who suggested a national referendum would be necessary to determine whether the United States should enter a league to prevent war, would have been ridiculed, the governor predicted the women of the nation will not vote to scamp the covenant.

"Fortunately for the first time in history the women of America hold the balance of power, and will cast the deciding vote," he said.

"The women of America will vote to keep our pledges to the 3,000 heroes whose blood has crimsoned the poppies in Flanders field. They will vote for the limitation of armaments, the amelioration of distress, and the elevation of labor conditions to higher standards. In a word they will vote for a league which will convert Christian idealism into the statutes of sound statesmanship and to bring to the sons of men a peace that shall cover the earth as the waters cover the sea."

MORE TIME IN JAIL

By United Press Leased Wire
New York.—Julius W. (Nick) Arnstein appeared for trial today before Judge Mulqueen on three charges of receiving stolen bonds and grand larceny, but at request of the district attorney the case was postponed until Oct. 25.

Arnstein, who is alleged to have vanished with thousands of dollars in bonds and to have outwitted the police in a game of hide-and-seek until he got ready to surrender, demanded an immediate trial but Judge Mulqueen held the district attorney's request was reasonable.

Meanwhile Arnstein is confined to Ludlow street jail for contempt of court as he has refused to answer questions in bankruptcy proceedings, on the ground that he might incriminate himself.

GRAND JURY AFTER
GOTHAM GAMBLERSSeek Evidence Against Men
Who Tried to Corrupt
Brooklyn Team.

By United Press Leased Wire
New York.—Action against any gamblers who may have laid plans for an attempt to "fix" the world series, beginning tomorrow, was recommended to the October grand jury today by County Judge Norman S. Dyke, of Brooklyn, in charging it.

"The members of the Brooklyn team have been found above suspicion," he said.

"If it can be found true, however, that plans were laid to try to corrupt them, then those who were concerned in those plans should be brought to justice and punished. We want clean sport in Brooklyn and we are happy to support and encourage it, but we will not stand by and let any class of parasite besmirch the name of our city by corrupting our national game."

William J. Fallon, attorney for Abe Attel, denied today that the former featherweight boxing champion had any part in the "fixing" of the 1919 world series.

According to Fallon, Attel met Bill Burns, former major league pitcher, here when Abe was "slightly under the influence of liquor." He said Burns told Abe he had "made a proposition to Arnold Rothstein, New York sporting man, to 'fix' the series and that Rothstein had 'abused him over the telephone.' Then, Fallon said, Burns asked Attel to use his influence with Rothstein and Abe had the same experience. Rothstein "bawling him out for making such a proposition."

Fallon said this ended Attel's connection with the alleged plot.

NO SLUMP IN STEEL
BUSINESS, SCHWAB SAYS

By United Press Leased Wire
Lafayette, Pa.—Conditions which make necessary reduction in prices in certain lines will make for stability and normal operation in the steel industry, Charles M. Schwab said here today.

"The steel industry is in a good, healthy state," Schwab said.

"The railroads of the country in normal times and under normal conditions consume about one-third of all the steel products. Railroads during the past five years have ordered nothing like their usual amount and this deficiency of the past five years will have to be made up, which added to the usual consumption will keep the steel business steady and normal. The same conditions apply to building requirements and other lines of trade."

HARDING PLEASED

His Views.

(By Raymond Clapper)
By United Press Leased Wire
Columbus, Ohio.—United States Senator Wm. E. Borah, will stump Ohio for the G. O. P. national ticket, according to a wire from him to state republican heads here today.

Henry S. Ballard, director of the republican state speakers' bureau, displayed the telegram from Borah to show that Borah is still in the campaign.

Ballard wired Borah Saturday asking him if he would accept speaking dates for Cincinnati and Cleveland.

Fremont, Ohio.—Tribute to the soldiers who fell in the world war was paid by Senator Warren G. Harding when he unveiled a bronze tablet in their honor at Spiegel Grove, near here, today.

Governor James M. Cox had been invited to the ceremonies but was reported to have cancelled the engagement.

The meeting was non-political.

Harding concluded his speech with a tribute to veterans of the world war.

"Somewhere there is a feeling of renewed security throughout the republic," Harding said.

"This is not alone for what you have done under arms; it is because of what America knows you will do in peace. You world war veterans are the new leaven in patriotic citizenship of the republic, the mightiest influence in American life for half a century to come. It was your republic wrought in its armed defense. A republic worth fighting for in Europe, is even more worth living for at home. The men who battled for American rights, American security and American honor, must hold an America whose rights are beyond question, whose security means guaranteed righteousness, whose honor is unquestioned at home or abroad. If we are sure about these, then the honored dead of Sandusky county, or Ohio and the nation shall not have died in vain."

Approval of recent speeches by Senator Hiram Johnson which contained endorsements of the party platform and Senator Harding's interpretation of it, was expressed in a statement by Senator Harding today.

Harding added he has been greatly pleased with the speeches of Senator Borah and said he knew he would be pleased just as much by those he will make in the future.

Harding said he was assured Borah would continue speaking.

"Senator Johnson repeatedly quoted from the league of nations address which I delivered on August 28, giving his 'unqualified support of it,' Harding said, 'and in that connection he made an eloquent appeal for the election of Samuel M. Short, bridge, the republican candidate for the senate from California, urging the necessity to elect men to the senate and house who will support the policy of the republican party.'"

Suspect Declares Enough Dynamite

to Blow Up City.

By United Press Leased Wire
New York.—A number of arrests were expected in Brooklyn today in connection with the Wall street explosion that as the result of disclosures made after the seizure in Pittsburgh last night of Florence Zelenska, 29, a Russian.

A suitcase containing dynamite, percussion caps and fuses and a quantity of radical literature, were found in the room where Zelenska was arrested after a struggle, according to advices here.

Federal agents located Zelenska's former rooming place in Brooklyn and discovered he left there between 10 and 11 o'clock in the morning on the day of the explosion in Wall street, two weeks ago last Thursday, carrying a large yellow bag.

The bomb was set off at noon. It was also learned he had been an employee of an explosives company about two years ago.

While federal agents refused to discuss the case in detail, it was intimated that Zelenska's arrest had furnished a "lead" which would result in several other men being taken into custody within a few hours.

Extradition of Zelenska was expected to be asked by federal officials as soon as an official report was received today from Pittsburgh police.

It was learned the evidence found in Zelenska's room in Brooklyn was regarded as sufficient to warrant his extradition to New York City.

Pittsburg, Pa.—Florence Zelenska, 29 of Brooklyn, today told police, they said, that enough dynamite was secreted in New York to blow up the whole town.

Finite clues that may lead to the arrest of those responsible for the Wall street explosion were believed by police to have been unearthed through the arrest of Zelenska.

Police said Zelenska admitted he was in Brooklyn at the time of the explosion.

Six sticks of dynamite, about 25 feet of fuse and a number of detonating caps were found in a yellow suitcase the prisoner carried when arrested.

After a preliminary hearing before police magistrate today, Zelenska will be turned over to government authorities.

Police said Leon Koukel, New York, gave them the information which led to Zelenska's arrest.

MORGAN TAKES UP FIGHT TO
ELECT M'COYG. O. P. Nominee for Attorney
General Repudiates Blaine Leadership.

RAPS NON-PARTISAN LEAGUE

Blaine's Election Would Be Catastrophe, Morgan Says in Statement.

William J. Morgan, republican nominee for attorney general of Wisconsin in a statement made public Monday noon, denounces James J. Blaine, republican nominee for governor, and declares he will take the stump for Robert B. McCoy, democratic candidate, because of Blaine's failure to repudiate the Non-Partisan League.

Mr. Morgan said that it is far more important that Blaine be defeated for governor than that he (Morgan) be elected attorney general, and for that reason he will not evade the vital issue of this campaign merely to insure his own election.

The Milwaukee attorney declared in his pre-campaign that if both he and Blaine were nominated he would work for McCoy, and he is now keeping that promise.

Morgan lead the fight in the platform convention at Madison again—Blaine's leadership. In a rousing speech he denounced Non-Partisan league and the G. O. P. candidate, declaring he would never support him.

"John J. Blaine has repudiated the republican party and cast his lot with Townley, the boss of the Non-Partisan League," Mr. Morgan said in his statement.

"I shall certainly adhere to the promise I made to the people in the Primary campaign and support Robert E. McCoy for governor."

"I told the people publicly in my primary campaign speeches that I did not intend to stop fighting the Non-Partisan League September 7."

"At the platform convention I offered to support a plank endorsing nominees of the republican primary who stood on the republican state platform and were in accord with its principles. When Mr. Blaine refused to do this the plank was not included. Knowing that the constitution of the Non-Partisan league required a declaration from a candidate that he would support the League program before I gave its endorsement, I did not, of course, have much hope, unless the constitution had not been followed in Wisconsin, that he would follow it."

Still, on the possibility that he had been misled, just as many of the members of the League were induced to join it by false statements, I felt it was only fair that he should be given a reasonable time to say so.

"I sent word to him since the platform convention that he had to choose where he would wear Townley's collar, as Fraser did in N. Dakota, or whether he would wear Townley's collar and take the consequences, just as Kozlowski and Langer did in North Dakota. I feel that he has now had plenty of time to declare himself for the republican platform, if he intended to do so, and the fair inference is that he prefers to keep Townley's collar on."

"His refusal to accept the national party platform, his refusal to endorse Harding and Coolidge, and his refusal to repudiate the League leadership, all of which he declined to do at the platform convention, he still persists in, and regular republicans who want to free the party from alien domination by imported radicals have no alternative but to support McCoy, who assures me that he is in thorough accord with the republican state platform in its opposition to the Non-Partisan league. I prefer a democrat, who says he stands with both feet on the republican platform on purely state issues, to an alleged republican who says he stands with both feet on the Non-Partisan league platform."

"It is foolish to say that this endangers the National ticket. Harding and Coolidge will sweep the state in November and everyone who has been over the state will tell you it will be a landslide."

"Blaine will not get the votes of all of the farmers who joined the league even. As fast as they learn the duplicity of the socialist leaders of the league, the farmers refuse to vote for league candidates. Two of the candidates who were ready to fight with me on the floor of the platform convention for the plank that was adopted—denouncing the Non-Partisan League leadership, were farmers who had joined the league. You can always trust people when they know the truth and the Non-Partisan League cannot stand the light of publicity on its record and its motives."

"In my own campaign the issue was clear cut, and the majority of nearly 35,000 which was given me indicates that the people do not in any campaign that all that was necessary to defeat the league candidates was to take the facts to the people."

"It is more than likely that with the socialist votes from Milwaukee county the Non-Partisan League will control the next Wisconsin assembly and it is vital that the league candidate for governor be defeated. It is far more important to the people of this state that Blaine should not be governor than that I should be Attorney General. That being true I have no

Fans "Fix" Wives To Let Them Attend World Series Games

New York.—Another "fixing" scandal in connection with the world's series was revealed here today.
The revelation had to do with how so many tired businessmen in all parts of the country from Kennebunkport, Maine, to Walla Walla, Washington, "fixed" their wives to let them come to the big city.
The explanation is simple: They brought their wives with them.
Money formed only a part of the bribe employed by the T. B. M. The real bribe was that greatest of all feminine desires—a shopping trip on Fifth avenue.
Discovery of this new phase of the popular sport of "fixing" was made in a round of New York hotels today. It was learned great numbers of the hundreds of men who have come here to try to see the opening games of the world series were accompanied by their wives.

Jury to Probe Allegations That 1920 Baseball Games Were "Fixed."

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago.—Charges involving two new major league clubs in connection with the recent expose of crooked baseball will be taken up by the Cook county grand jury when it resumes its probe here tomorrow of the "fixing" of the 1919 world series.

The investigators also will take up the charges that the Aug. 31 game here between the Phillies and Cubs was fixed. Allegations that games between the Giants and Cincinnati in 1919 were crooked also will be considered.

John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants, Benny Kauff and Fred Toney, members of the Giants, were expected to testify regarding attempts to bribe New York players. According to published report here today, the Sox threw at least three games on the last eastern trip. Sox players may be subpoenaed to testify regarding this.

The inside story of the alleged throwing of the 1919 world series and of games during the 1920 season will probably be sought from Ray Schalk, premier White Sox backstop.

Schalk, it was said, was the first to notice something wrong. His signals, according to reports, were crossed by Eddie Cicotte and Claude Williams, Chicago pitchers who have confessed they accepted bribes to throw games.

"World Awaiting Verdict
"Surely, we shall not fail to keep the promise sealed in the death and sacrifice of our incomparable soldiers, sailors and marines who await our verdict beneath the sod of France.

"Those who do not care to tell you the truth about the league of nations, tell you that Article X of the covenant of the league would make it possible for other nations to lead us into war, whether we willed it by our own independent judgment or not. This is absolutely false.

"There is nothing in the covenant which in the least interferes with or impairs the right of congress to declare war or not declare war, according to its own judgment as our constitution provides.

"Those who drew the covenant of the league were careful that it should contain nothing which interfered with or impaired the constitutional arrangements of any of the great nations which are to constitute its members. They would have been amazed and indignant at the things that are now being ignorantly said about this great and sincere document.

"The whole world will wait for your verdict in November as it would wait for an intimation of what its future is to be.

right to evade the vital issue merely for the sake of insuring my own election as attorney general. I do not feel that I can be criticised for taking this stand because in every part of the state I told the people in advance that if Mr. Blaine was nominated and I was nominated that I would take the stump for McCoy. Naturally, since I have been nominated after making that statement it must mean that the people want me to do just that thing, and I shall certainly keep faith with them. I was nominated on that program by the votes of over 174,000 citizens of Wisconsin, and they are entitled to a spokesman to express their wishes. This is no time for temporizing. No half way measures will do. We must go full speed length in this and beat the league's candidate for governor by supporting Mr. McCoy. We must fight Townley's league to a finish, and it is better to do it now than two years hence when it would be more firmly entrenched.

NASH SIX

Nash Prices Cannot Be Reduced BECAUSE They Have Never Been Inflated

There will be no reduction in the price of the Nash Six. We think it only fair to state our policy plainly in justice to present Nash Six owners and those who contemplate purchasing this car.

Nash prices cannot be reduced because present prices represent the actual intrinsic value of the product plus a profit sufficient only to maintain manufacturing operations.

That is a plain statement of fact.

We cannot buy the high grade materials used in the Nash Six any cheaper.

We cannot buy the skilled labor employed in the making of the Nash Six any cheaper.

These two factors determine price. Until materials are lower or labor is lower, NO ONE can manufacture such a car as the Nash Six for less money.

We say no one advisedly because here in this great plant covering 101 acres of ground and employing 5000 skilled workmen, manufacturing costs are reduced to their lowest level.

Here, the Nash Six is manufactured 93% in its entirety. We have every advantage that large resources and a well established business afford—the purchase of raw materials on a big scale, perfected manufacturing processes and the distribution of costs over a large output. This insures minimum production costs for each individual car.

That is why the Nash Six has always represented exceptionally high value. The savings made by our manufacturing methods have been given to the buyer, keeping the price of this car at the lowest possible figure.

Consider this fact. Since 1917, while prices of all commodities have been soaring, the price of the Nash Six has risen only 31%. Considering the addition of cord tires and other equipment as standard equipment, the actual increase has been only 24%. During that time, the increased price of other motor cars shows an average of 76%.

The cost of living has risen 104%.

These figures show plainly that Nash manufacturing ability does make possible a car of exceptional value, and that Nash selling prices have always been kept low in accordance with our low production cost. In view of price changes, actual and rumored, we welcome the opportunity to make this statement:

"That the Nash Six today represents more actual value, and is a bigger and better automobile than any other car within hundreds of dollars of its price."

That is our judgment and that it is the judgment of many thousands of motor buyers is evident in the widespread conviction that the Nash Six does represent value impressively above the average.

Under these unsettled conditions it is the only explanation of the fact that today the Nash Motors Company has thousands of unfilled orders on its books and that maximum production schedules are being maintained in our factory.

You may purchase the Nash Six with the assurance that today as always, you are buying a car of exceptional value.

You buy more power with the Nash Six due to its Perfected Valve-in-Head Motor.

You can buy comfort and convenience beyond the ordinary.

You buy really exceptional beauty of design and finish.

And you buy a car with the high character of its performance proved beyond question.

A STATEMENT

Our policy has always been to give the consumer the best automobile and best truck we could build at the least possible cost. We have never asked a dollar more, simply because we could get it. In view of the fact that there is no reduction today in the price of materials or labor entering into Nash products, and that there is no possibility of any reduction for some time to come that can substantially affect manufacturing costs, the policy of The Nash Motors Company will be to absolutely maintain its present prices on both passenger cars and trucks to at least July 1st, 1921.

PEAT CONVERTING PLANT SOON READY

Main Buildings of Appleton Peat Products Company Plant Nearly Done.

The buildings of the Appleton Peat Products company plant at Center swamp are rapidly taking shape. The main manufacturing building where the converting processes take place is all enclosed and needs only a little work on its interior.

Anticipating a heavy demand for fuel, the company has decided to add a large drying and storage warehouse at the east end, where some 50 tons of peat briquettes can be kept at one time until dried and ready for the market. It will have capacity for 8,000 bales, or racks on which the fuel is laid out to dry.

There are also two large storage rooms at the west end, where mull, the peat fertilizer preparation included in the company's list of products may be kept. A spacious room at the south contains the raw peat as brought in on tram cars drawn up an incline from the swamp. The machinery for operating these cars is already in place.

Part of the peat making machinery has arrived, including the grinding mill and the device which cuts the mass into briquettes. The furnace which fires the mull has also been received. Considerable other equipment is awaited, including the power machinery.

A large number of workmen are kept busy at the swamp completing the buildings and it is the expectation of C. A. Willmarth, general manager, that the plant will be operating within 60 days. There is plenty of curiosity among Appleton people as to the outcome of the company's preparations. A number of autoists visit the place almost every day, look over the mill and ask questions. They know that peat will burn, but they are anxious to see what the finished product of the new process will be.

NO DIVORCE POSSIBLE ON LITTLE JERSEY ISLAND

(Special to Post-Crescent.)
London.—If you get married on the island of Jersey here are some of the things you are in for:
1. You take your partner literally until death do you part, as there is no divorce under the Jersey law.
2. If you are a woman you cannot start a banking account without your husband's permission.
3. You will have to live with your husband's mother, unless he can provide her with a dowry house.
4. Your husband will be entitled to sell your property and grab everything you possess unless you have your possessions divided under the Jersey separation act.

The marriage laws of this island have remained practically unchanged since they were handed down by the Norman conquerors centuries ago.

Tramp Frightens Girls
A tramp while in Pierce's park Sunday afternoon frightened several small girls whom they claimed he chased for some distance. He was lying underneath a tree and they did not see him until they were almost upon him. The girls said that he had been seen on the south side of the park for several days. He is a comparatively young man.

NEW LONDON PLANT TO KEEP RUNNING

Borden Condensary Will Be Among the Last to Close Its Doors.

There is little probability that the Big Borden condensed milk plant in New London and its sub-station in Greenville be closed down because of a slump in the milk market, according to word from New London. A number of Borden condensaries near Chicago and New York have suspended operations but F. H. King, manager of the New London plant, said he believes that factory will be among the last to close its doors because of the large amount of money invested.

Mr. King admitted a serious slump in the milk market and that the company has instructed him not to take no more farmer patrons and to discontinue milk routes that have not been paying their own way. Nearly every condensing company is stocking up now and many are filled to their capacity.

New London was rather excited by a report that the big factory there would be closed down for a few weeks, or until the market revived, but Mr. King has spiked the rumor.

STREET RAILWAY VALUES GO UP TWO MILLIONS

Madison.—The state tax commission on Wednesday announced the valuation of the street railways companies at $71,360,000. Last year the valuation of these companies was fixed by the commission at $69,417,000. These twenty-three street car companies will pay taxes this year of $1,532,498.93, as compared with $1,015,640.12 last year. In the valuation figures announced today the Madison Railway company is assessed at $800,000 and will pay $17,057.55 in taxes. The Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company is valued at $40,000,000 and will pay taxes of $755,127.21. The Eastern Wisconsin Electric company is valued at $4,000,000 and will pay $75,812.73 in taxes.

PRESENT FLAGS TO NEW U. S. CITIZENS

Woman's Relief Corps to Stage Pretty Ceremony at Next Hearing Here.

The Woman's Relief Corps will present small silk flags to the newly made citizens at the next naturalization hearing in circuit court November 11. United States Naturalization Examiner George N. Danielson recommended this ceremony last Thursday and was notified the next day that the Relief Corps would have representatives at the hearing in court and present flags.

There will be no more naturalization hearings until after the November election, as the federal law prohibits the admission to citizenship within 30 days of a general election. Many Appleton applicants for citizenship have appeared to the examiner to have a hearing in the local court before election so they can be admitted to citizenship and have a right to vote, but the Outagamie hearing was set early in the year for November 11 and could not be moved ahead.

Examiner Danielson concluded his last hearing at Marinette on Saturday and was in the city Sunday enroute to headquarters. He said that in his dis-

The Stage

"The Old Homestead"

Those who love sweet music and those who enjoy the scent of new mown hay can have their several tastes gratified by a visit to Denman Thompson's "The Old Homestead." That charming play has been before the public for thirty three years and is now on its thirty-fourth annual tour. It is the same simple story of rural life in New England that it was way back in 1886 when it was first produced at the Boston Theatre.

The production this season is up to the usual standard of the Augustus Piau Inc. attractions, who are presenting this wonderful old play at the Appleton Theatre.

A cast of unusual merit portrays the natural characters, some having been with the organization since the early days of its success. Prominent among them are George L. Patch who has a record of thirty-one years to his credit, Charles Carter who plays Cy Prime and has been associated with the play since 1896. William Lawrence who plays that lovable character of "Uncle Josh," has been playing the part since 1904 and has played the part over three thousand times, a record for the greatest number of times a star part has been played by anyone upon the American stage.

The famous double quartette is still in evidence and the Grace Church by moonlight, with the singing of the "Psalm" by the grand choir always retunes a deep and lasting impression. "The Old Homestead" possesses more genuine laughs than any farce comedy. Wholesome laughs that you can always hear again and again. The old fashioned country dance makes you wish you were a boy or girl again and you leave the theatre wishing it would last a lot longer.

"Let's Go" is the slogan whenever this wonderful old play is announced.

Vaudeville Program

THE REPUBLICAN NOMINEE AND PEACE
Senator Harding reflected the character of political opposition to the so-called Wilson league of nations when in his Baltimore speech he said: "I am perfectly frank to say to you that I am without a single program, constructive in character, about an association of nations." After voicing his hostility to the Versailles treaty he added: "When I am elected president the first thing I'll do is to try to find a plan for an association of nations behind which all America will stand."

This very well illustrates the Harding-Lodge attitude, which is purely opportunist. Mr. Harding confesses he has no ideas on the subject, except to try to please everybody, a thing which is obviously impossible, while Senator Lodge is in quite as compromised a position after repudiating his own course in the senate.

A man who has striven with all his power to satisfy elements of his party with diametrically opposed convictions, as well as those with no convictions at all, can hardly be expected to have a mind of his own. When the campaign opened Senator Harding did all he could to convince Johnson, Borah and the irreconcilables that he was opposed to the league of nations in any form. He did this by indirection, with assertions, for instance, that the Versailles league was dead, had failed to function and could not be revived. He denounced the league with vigor and employed against it all the false and fictitious arguments that resourceful politicians had invented during the fight in the senate. His earlier addresses all were of this character, giving decided cheer and hope to the irreconcilables.

Hiram Johnson asserted positively that the candidate had "scrapped the league of nations." Senator Borah was equally optimistic. Then Mr. Wickersham, an ardent advocate of the league, visited the nominee and came away with the declaration that Mr. Harding was not really opposed to the league and would favor American membership in it with reservations. Mr. Taft after carefully studying the enigmatic utterances of Mr. Harding reached the same conclusion, and expressed the opinion that if elected he would be compelled by public opinion to enter the league. Other pro-league Republicans of prominence inclined to a lenient analysis of the Harding view. In other words, everybody seemed pleased. Whether they were irrevocably against a league of any kind, whether they favored the Versailles league with or without reservations, whether they were for an altogether new association, all were satisfied the candidate was on their side. This was, to say the least, adroit handling of so difficult an issue. A candidate who could make those bitterly opposed to a proposal believe he was with them, and at the same time convince those who were heartily and militantly for the proposal that he was with them, was to be considered a success as a party unifier. Whether he might be morally or intellectually dishonest was a matter, as Senator Penrose would say, of no consequence.

But the straddle has not turned out as well as it started. The candidate, finally driven into a corner, admits he has no ideas, no convictions, no purposes, concerning a league of nations. His only thought has been, and he confesses this too, to please everybody and get votes. On the great question of peace his mind is a blank, and yet he sat in the United States senate for a year and a half after the armistice and all the while the treaty was being considered by that body in its prolonged and heated deliberations. Mr. Harding, after this experience, after being nominated for president with the general understanding by both parties that peace and the league of nations were the supreme issues of the campaign and on top of the conceded fact that the decisions touching peace are of greater consequence to the world than probably any event in history, still is by his own words, thirty days before election, "without a single program, constructive in character, about an association of nations."

Can any person imagine William Howard Taft as having no ideas of his own about a league of nations, no constructive program as to peace? Can any person imagine Elihu Root as having no convictions in the premises? Their greatness is in itself a guarantee that they have well defined opinions, a positive program. Great men do not have blank-tablet minds. Could Theodore Roosevelt, were he living, possibly be thought of as occupying Mr. Harding's empty shoes on the league of nations? It does not take men who are not running for office, notable men like Cardinal Gibbons, Dr. Eliot, Samuel Gompers, Dr. Butler, years to reach ideas on proposals of world peace. They have long since taken a definite position, but the candidate for president of the United States, whose election is morally certain, is without an opinion of any kind on peace.

Is it any wonder that Mr. Root, who while in Europe setting up a vital part of the league of nations was reported as dumbfounded at the Harding attitude, refuses to discuss the question upon his return home? Is it any wonder Senator Borah has gone on the warpath and severed relations with the presidential campaign committee? Is it any wonder Senator Johnson is preparing to do the same? Is it any wonder Mr. Taft is kept busy explaining and apologizing for the candidate's compromising course on peace?

By no process of the imagination can Senator Harding be looked to as a leader in great questions of public policy, national or international. He has no foreign policy of any sort or description. He is without even rudimentary ideas on the tremendous issues of peace. It cannot fail to be a source of keen disappointment to those outstanding and distinguished Republicans who are supporting him that a man of real capacity, a man with real convictions, a man who was a leader of men, was not nominated for president by the Chicago convention. The Republicans will win in spite of the weakness of their presidential nominee. The country wants Republican administration, and we share with it the belief that it will be better off with Republican administration, but nevertheless it is a matter for deep regret that at a time when statesmanship of a high and courageous order was demanded in the White house, and when the Republican party had everything to gain and nothing to lose, with the absolute assurance of victory at the polls, it did not rise to the occasion and nominate a great man for the presidency.

"Look!" said the fire-fly, disclosing his spark,
"I am so brilliant I shine in the dark.
Surely I'm more than a commonplace star,
Stuck away off in the heavens afar,
For I come to brighten you, right where you are."
"Really, I feel that I'm highly commendable,
As for the moon, why it isn't dependable.
It's thin as a sickle, or round as a ball,
It's shaved or it's quartered, or black as a pall,
But is my light so frivolous? No, not at all."
"And the sun is a joke. It has never succeeded
In shining one particle when it is needed.
Indeed, it's a matter of common remark,
You never can see it a bit in the dark,
But I'll well, just look at me! See that's my spark."

THE FINGERS MAKE MISCHIEF
It is to many sufferers a painful question why one boil is so likely to be followed by a series. Long ago Doctor Bunk intimated in his spring tonic or blood purifier almanac that a crop or succession of boils indicated "impure blood," the boils being presumably "corruptions" coming to the surface. This explanation made a big hit with the credulous almanac readers, and moreover it helped sell many bottles of Doctor Bunk's concoctions, for once the victim began taking junk each new boil was evidence that the medicine was "driving the impurities out of the system." Of all the idiotic notions the grand old public has been bred on this one of medicine driving poison in or out or through or under is the most insane, though it is still one of the biggest selling points the nostrum exploiters have.

We need not postulate any particular fault of the blood, or recurring boils. A boil is a little abscess, and an abscess is a collection of pus. Pus (commonly called matter) is the detritus left when tissue substance breaks down and dies together with the dead bodies of innumerable millions of scavenger cells (white blood corpuscles, phagocytes). These scavenger cells make their way through the delicate walls of the microscopic capillary blood vessels and migrate through the tissues to attack invading germs; if the scavenger cells or phagocytes win, they swallow or more properly wrap themselves around bunches of the germs and digest and destroy the invaders—which disappear in the bodies of the white cells. If the germs win, the white cells die, and become pus cells.

The germs responsible for the boil gain entrance through some minute or unnoticed break of the skin, such as an abrasion produced by a rough collar band or the friction of some part of the clothing on the skin. The healthy, clean skin constantly harbors germs capable of setting up inflammation or pus-formation if they once find their way into the skin. Playing this role seems to arouse or increase the virulence of the germs.

One of the most difficult features in first aid for wounds is insistence on a strict policy of "bandis off." It is human nature to touch the wound with the fingers, and this impulse is even stronger in the case of a boil. Now once the fingers touch a boil or the skin over a boil, the fingers are contaminated with pus-producing germs, and may readily convey the virus or aroused germs to new fields, implanting them in the production of new boils. This, then, is the usual explanation for the second and all subsequent boils. There is no excuse for ever touching a boil.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Reducing Cream
Would like your opinion of the following reducing cream: Vaseline, 25 grams, lanoline, 25 grams, potassium iodide, 1 1/2 grams, tincture of benzoin, 15 drops. I want some good local application as I am not too large otherwise than in the bust. (J. H. T.)

ANSWER—If the iodine of potash is absorbed thru the skin at all—which is very doubtful—it would produce the systemic effects of the drug. Unless you happen to be very sensitive to iodine, it would have no effect on your weight or on the size of any part of the body. To local application will reduce or develop the busts or any other limited part of the body.

Cramps While Swimming
I am a boy 12 years old. Please tell me what causes cramps while swimming. Does it do any good to rub whisky or witch hazel or any liniment on the legs before a swimming race? My mother reads all your articles and turns twelve somersaults each night and morning. (C. J.)

ANSWER—When an actual cramp is felt in the muscles while swimming, it is due to overexertion and if the water is very cold such a cramp is more likely to come. Most cases of drowning popularly ascribed to cramps are not so caused. It is doubtful whether rubbing with anything is of any advantage in preparing for a contest. One cause of sudden drowning of good swimmers is vertigo or dizziness produced by the entrance of cold water into the inner ear. If there happens to be a perforated eardrum, persons who have such an opening in the ear drum should insert a loose packing of lamb's wool in the ears before going in swimming.

The Soda Habit
I have found a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda, dissolved in a glass of water, three times a day, before each meal, beneficial in treatment of sore and stiff knee joints. How long may this be continued without harmful results? Mrs. K. T. M.)

XII. The Grant-Seymour Race of 1868.
Washington, D. C.—The long and bitter quarrel between President Johnson and Congress resulted in the adoption of a policy of reconstruction in the southern states which had in it more of Thaddeus Stevens than of Abraham Lincoln. It resulted also in the enfranchisement of the negroes. But, so far as the campaign of 1868 was concerned, its most important result was the adherence of General Ulysses S. Grant to the Republican party and his triumphal election to the Presidency. General Grant was the greatest of all war heroes, yet it was with the utmost difficulty that he was persuaded to become a candidate.

In the first place Grant was a Democrat, so far as he had any politics at all. His last vote before the war was for a radical pro-slavery Democrat, and he was not even a supporter of Douglas in the quadrigular fight of 1860. He never cast a Republican vote until after he had served eight years as a Republican President. The Democrats claimed him. They had even talked of nominating him in 1864. During the Johnson administration there was an earnest effort to get the Democratic party on its feet and to nominate Grant for President. If it had not been for the quarrel between Congress and the President, which resulted in a violent break between Grant and Johnson, the probabilities are that Grant would have been nominated and elected by the Democrats in 1868.

But Johnson had provoked Grant to anger and had attempted to supersede him in command of the Army by calling General Thomas to that position. Grant naturally found sympathizers among the Republican leaders in Congress, nearly all of whom hated Johnson with their whole souls. So when the Republicans began to plead with Grant to be their candidate, he listened. For a time he held back, honestly doubting the wisdom of the step. Finally his consent was obtained. He was nominated and elected the whole thing was over. So far as the head of the ticket was concerned, the Republican National Convention which met in Chicago on May 29 was merely a ratification meeting.

South Did Not Count
While some of the southern states were permitted to take part in the election, no attention was paid to them as it was known that they would be excluded if their votes affected the result. The race in the North became a contest in loyalty. The Republicans saved the "bloody shirt" kept on fighting the war, told the "boys" to "vote as they shot," and called all the Democrats "Copperheads." The Democrats, on the other hand, made violent protestations of intense loyalty, assuming the higher patriotism of a firm reliance upon the liberties guaranteed by the Constitution. For the most part the Democrats were supporters of President Johnson's administration.

The Republican Convention met in Chicago on the same day—of course it was an accident—that the National Soldiers' and Sailors' Convention met. The Soldiers and Sailors got under way a little quicker than the Republicans and recommended the nomination of Grant. The convention, next day, accepted the recommendation with a whoop.

In some respects, however, it was the "maddest" bunch of Republicans that ever assembled in a national convention. The impeachment trial of President Johnson had been dragging itself out, and every Republican in the country was absolutely confident that the verdict of the Senate would be "guilty." Only four days before the Chicago convention met the Senate voted and Johnson was acquitted. The vote was thirty-four guilty and nineteen not guilty, but that lacked one vote of being the requisite two-thirds. Seven Republicans had joined the twelve Democrats then in the Senate in voting for acquittal. In the convention these Senators were called the "seven traitors." Whatever may be the final verdict of history in the case of Andrew Johnson as a statesman, it is already unanimously agreed that his acquittal in the impeachment proceedings was right.

Wade's Shattered Hopes
There was old Len Wade, president pro tempore of the Senate. If Johnson had been convicted he would have succeeded to the Presidency under the old order of succession. He thought it was a certainty. Grant was to be nominated for President, but Wade was running for Vice President on the strength of promising patronage for the few months he was to be President. The Wade boom fell through when Johnson was acquitted and Schuyler Colfax of Indiana got second place on the ticket.

The Democratic Convention that year met in Tammany Hall on Fourteenth Street, New York, on July 4. It was a great loyalistic and patriotic gathering and not even the Republicans could do more yelling for the flag. Quite a war accident, a most peculiar coincidence, a National Soldiers' and Sailors' Convention met in New York on the same day. That convention, entirely distinct from the one that had met in Chicago in May, recommended to the Democratic convention the nomination of General Winfield Scott Hancock. But the Democrats didn't approve the recommendation.

Despite the fact, not then so apparent, that the Democrats did not have a ghost of a chance to defeat Grant with anybody they might name, there was a great contest over the nomination. In the first place, Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, wanted to run on the Democratic ticket. He wrote a letter saying he would accept the nomination. Then George H. Pendleton of Ohio was there as the embodiment of the "greenback" sentiment, which was gaining ground all over the country. On the first ballot Pendleton, Johnson was second, and Hancock third, with a dozen other candidates in the field.

Wiley Wire-Pullers
In that convention were the two shrewdest politicians who ever entered the national arena under the Democratic banner—Horatio Seymour and Samuel J. Tilden. Seymour was president of the convention. Tilden was leading the New York delegation. Seymour was the chief conspirator in a scheme to stampede the convention to Salmon P. Chase. If there was ever a man who wanted to be President it was Salmon P. Chase. And if ever an aspirant had a supporter who was always faithful and always enthusiastic, it was Chase's daughter, Kate Chase Sprague. Chase had been a candidate in various parties before the war, he had opposed Lincoln for the nomination in 1864, and Lincoln had returned good for evil by making him Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, despite the memory of his quarrel with Chase as Secretary of the Treasury, early in his administration.

It was now 1868 and Chase was again a candidate, this time for the Democratic leadership. He had sided over the trial of Andrew Johnson as Chief Justice, and the "fairness and impartiality" of his rulings were specifically commended in the Democratic platform. Seymour had fixed it up to give Chase the nomination. After the twenty-first ballot was taken on the fifth day of the convention Seymour left the chair to go out in the hall and organize the Chase stampede, which was to come off on the twenty-third ballot.

How Tilden Beat Chase
Now Samuel J. Tilden was there, and he was absolutely opposed to the nomination of Chase. He was informed as to Seymour's plans, and Seymour had left the chair but a moment when Tilden was in action. He started the Seymour stampede on the twenty-second ballot. Seymour rushed back to the platform and as state after state followed Tilden's lead, he shouted: "Gentlemen, your candidate I cannot be. Your candidate I cannot be." But he was. And eight years afterward, when Samuel J. Tilden was contesting his right to the Presidency before an extra constitutional tribunal, Kate Chase Sprague remembered that it was Tilden who blocked her father's last hope of the Presidency, and was revenged.

The election was a walkaway for Grant. He received 214 electoral votes to Seymour's 80. Seymour carried only eight states.

NEWS OF INTEREST FROM COUNTY AND STATE

HOUSING NEEDS PARTIALLY MET

Wisconsin Building Activity in 1920 Has Not Kept Pace With Needs.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Madison—There is a housing shortage in Wisconsin, except in a few cities where population has been at a standstill. There is an acute housing shortage in industrial centers where population has been increasing rapidly. This is true of all the cities on the lake shore and the Fox River valley except Oshkosh, and also in Beloit, Janesville and Madison. There has been exceptional building activity almost everywhere in the state during 1920. The largest amount of building, however, has been that of houses, churches, and schools rather than of homes. It is doubtful whether for the state as a whole, the new homes built in 1920 have kept pace with the normal increase of city population.

In many of the industrial centers housing corporations have been organized usually under the auspices of the owners of commerce or the employers' associations. Housing corporations of this kind have been organized in Kenosha, Two Rivers, Stevens Point, Watertown and in some other cities. A number of large industrial plants also have carried out extensive housing projects of their own, either directly or through subsidiary corporations.

WOULD BUY GAS PLANT TO END POOR SERVICE

RACINE—Whether the city of Racine shall purchase the local gas plant, supplying fuel and illuminating gas to this city, Kenosha, South Milwaukee, Oshkosh and intermediate points, is to be determined at a special election called to approve or disapprove the action of the common council in rescinding action of the people in voting for the purchase of the plant.

The voters, nearly two years ago, and the purchase of the local gas plant. The common council fought the purchase.

It is now planned to circulate petitions among the voters, asking for a special election to determine whether the action of the common council shall be enforced. If it is not the city must ask the railroad commission for a determination of the value of the property and proceed with the purchase.

tions. Among these are the Ajax Rubber company at Racine, the Kohler company at Kohler, the Kimberly-Clark company at Neenah, the North American Furniture company at Sheboygan, the Samson Tractor company at Janesville and the Fairbanks-Morse company at Beloit. Milwaukee has a housing commission and is organizing a co-operative housing company with municipal assistance.

At a special session of the legislature early this year, law giving authority to the railroad commission to regulate rents in apartment houses in Milwaukee was enacted. This law has had some effect in keeping down the increase in rents, but has not relieved the housing shortage which has become very acute in Milwaukee. The railroad commission has recently announced that it will make a general survey of rents in Milwaukee because the law, as heretofore administered, has operated in many cases to put out from their homes the tenants who were old enough to complain about profiteering by their landlords.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Madison—The division of markets reports the potato season is opening up under conditions which are not extremely satisfactory to producers and shippers. Taking the state as a whole, the condition and size of the crop is fairly satisfactory although in some sections there is complaint made of small yields or small size, while in others some losses have been experienced due to the frost or blight. The main trouble at present, however, is that the potatoes are slow in maturing and the stock is not in the best of condition for shipment. Stock shipped now is utilized only for immediate use as it is not mature enough for winter storage.

The division's potato inspectors report that most of the warehouses will open in the next week or ten days. Just how heavy the shipments will be at first depends on market conditions and prices. At present the market is in a poor condition and there is very little activity except at shipping points or in the central markets. Ungraded and immature stock is affecting the market considerably and dealers do not look for improvement until such stock is cleaned up.

BADGER APPLES ARE OF FINE QUALITY THIS YEAR

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Madison—The News Letter of the Market Division to be issued this week will say of the apple market:

"Wisconsin apples are now being shipped and are proving to be of fine quality and generally in very good condition. Most of the stock is being shipped in bulk, due to the inability to get barrels and because of expensive labor necessary if apples are packed in barrels or boxes. The bulk stock is meeting with general favor and can be bought without hesitation as just as good stock is now being shipped as formerly was put in barrels or boxes."

"The Division of Markets is in a position to secure cars of apples for any persons wanting same. Wisconsin apples are ranging from $2.50 a hundred pounds delivered. Wisconsin points and apples from New York or other states can be secured at prices ranging around $2.75 a hundred pounds delivered at Wisconsin points. Anyone in the state wanting to buy or sell apples should inform this office of their wants and they will be promptly taken care of."

WOULD MAKE PUBLIC HEED TRAFFIC LAWS

MILWAUKEE.—Stricter compliance with and enforcement of traffic laws as a preventive of automobile accidents were urged today by J. A. Van Osdel, general attorney for the Union Traction company of Indiana before the electric railway section of the national safety council's ninth annual congress.

Mr. Osdel said that a test made by the Indiana Service corporation in 1919 at thirteen public highway crossings over steam roads showed that while approximately 5 per cent of the engineers failed to obey the law by not giving the proper highway crossing signal, 42 per cent of the drivers of vehicles failed to obey.

GETS FULL PENALTY FOR BREAKING JAIL

Oshkosh.—Frank Paulus, aged 17 who with Stanley Guenther, age 20, escaped from the county jail Monday after slugging the jail keeper, was captured in the brick yard of the Cook and Brown company, where he had been hiding. He was brought into Municipal court, where he pleaded guilty to stealing a bicycle which he tried to sell in Fond du Lac. The fact that he served a term in the House of Correction at Milwaukee from which institution he escaped and had escaped here, the judge sentenced him to one year in the state penitentiary at Wau-pun.

TELLS TROUBLES OF SEVEN YEARS

Says Nothing Relieved His Indigestion Until He Began Taking Tanlac

"One bottle of Tanlac has done more good than all the other medicines I ever took, and I have been seven years trying to get relief," declared John Schelling, of 472 Scott street, Milwaukee, Wis.

"I suffered a nervous breakdown back in 1913," said Mr. Schelling, "and since that time my stomach has been all upset. After eating I always bloated up with gas, had a burning sensation in the pit of my stomach, and suffered severe pains in my side. I suffered from terrible headaches, my tongue was coated, and I had a bitter taste in my mouth. I was so restless I would lie awake for hours at a time, and in the mornings I got up feeling just as tired as when I went to bed."

"My first bottle has helped me so much that I'm just going to keep on taking it until I get perfectly well again. The gas no longer forms in my stomach and I'm free from headaches and that awful taste in my mouth. I have more energy than I have had in a long time and am just picking up in every way. Tanlac has certainly done me a world of good in the short time I have been taking it."

Tanlac is sold in Appleton by John E. Voigt; P. O. Brown, Shiocton; Dr. J. M. Sattler, Bear Creek; H. E. Abend, Dale.

DRASTIC STEPS TO IMPROVE CHEESE

Cheese Must Be Out of Press at Least Three Days Before Shipping.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Madison, Wis.—Taking steps to drive from the world market so-called green cheese which is undermining Wisconsin's reputation as a dairy state, the division of markets by drastic order Saturday forbids the 2,750 cheese factories in Wisconsin to pack or ship or deliver or paraffine whole milk American cheese unless it has been out of the press at least three days and is dry.

Due to pressure by buyers to obtain cheese, particularly during the war, and due to efforts of some cheesemakers to crowd into cheese all the water that the product would hold, the market has been clogged with cheese prematurely packed or paraffined, which cheese develops rind rot before it reaches the consumer and often involves a total waste of its food value. This waste is ultimately heaped on the consumer who either pays for the unfit cheese or hears the increased price of good cheese caused by the dealers' loss on the cheese which has deteriorated in transit.

The situation is made more critical by the fact that people outside of Wisconsin are turning to New York for cheese. Foreign buyers are announcing that they will pay from 3 to 5 cents more for New York than for Wisconsin cheese.

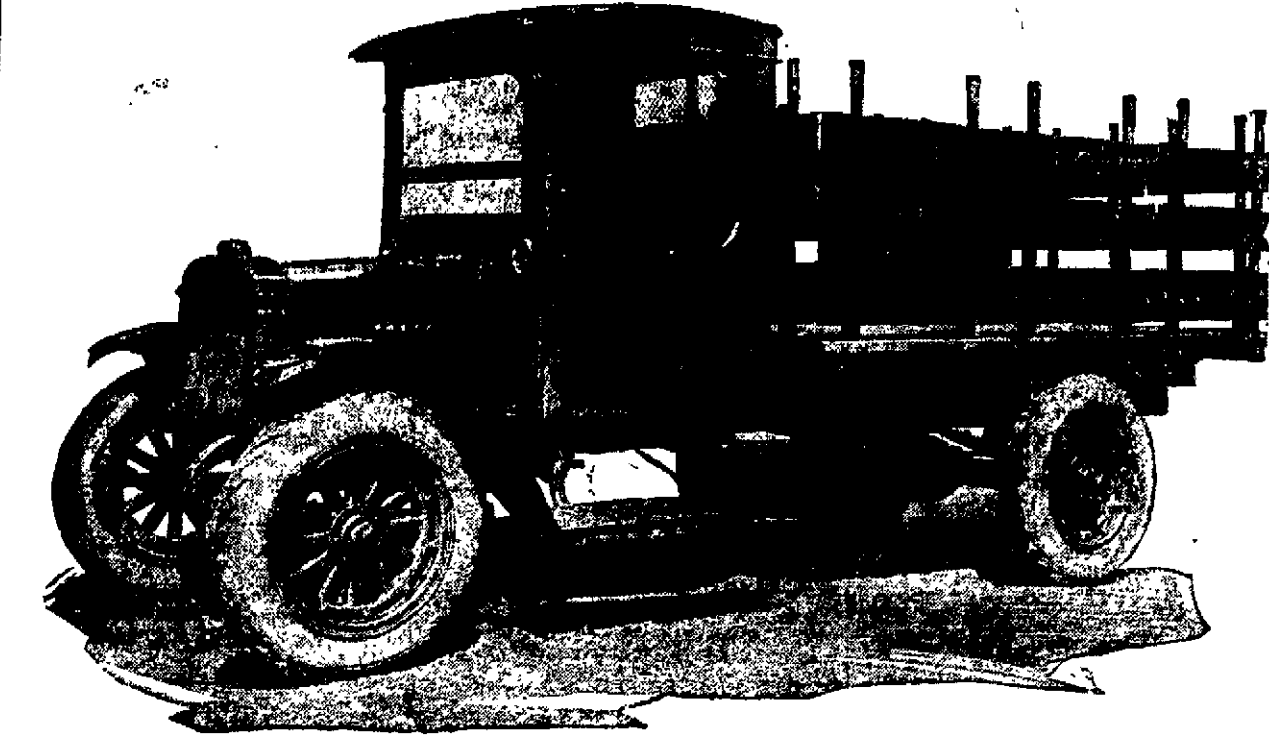

To meet these conditions the division of markets, after public hearing before Alvin C. Reed, chief of the Madison last Thursday, determined to impose a flat prohibition against the marketing of this cheese. The order makes it criminal not only for cheese factories to ship but also for all buyers from factories to receive any cheese in green condition.

The order further requires, under penalty of fine or imprisonment, that the cheese maker or operator stamp upon each cheese the date of removing from the press and the date of packing, together with the cheese factory's number to be issued by the division of markets, so that a chain of evidence to attach guilt to the party violating the order may be established.

All persons affected by the order are given until November 1 to comply.

FAMOUS MEN WILL DELIVER TALKS IN OPEN FORUM HERE

Burning Problems of the Day Will Be Discussed at Series of Meetings.

FIRST MEETING NOVEMBER 7

Dr. Plantz Avers Both Sides of Every Question Will Be Discussed.

Many men of prominence are to address Appleton people on the burning questions of the day at meetings of the Open Forum, according to a statement from Dr. Samuel Plantz, President of Lawrence college, who is one of the leaders in the movement.

These meetings will be of exceptional interest to every thinking person because they will provide for a discussion of important topics, without bias.

The program is being worked out with the view of discussing the most important problems confronting the American people.

"In these days when men are thinking so vigorously on social problems, when such diverse views of men's obligations and rights are prevalent and movement that would give the public the opportunity to hear the different sides of public questions presented is of great importance," Dr. Plantz said. "Such a privilege is to be presented to the people of Appleton this winter. Some months ago a number of citizens representing the churches, educational interests and civic and labor organizations of the city were called together and the question of having an Open Forum Sunday evenings from the first of November to the beginning of Lent was carefully considered with the result that the proposition was agreed to and committees appointed to carry out the project.

"Matters have so far progressed that the committees can assure the people of a most interesting program with speakers of wide reputation to lead the discussions. We say lead the discussions for the forum is not simply a lecture platform. It is more of a debating society. A speaker of known ability will present the subject, and then it is the privilege of the audience to ask questions, present counter opinions, and discuss the subject generally. There is to be no clamping placed on free speech. Speakers representing both conservative and radical standpoints will be selected. The forum believes in freedom of speech and that truth can stand the light. No attempt will be made to make the forum a representative of the beliefs of the church.

"The program is not fully complete but among the speakers who are already engaged are the following: Dr. Edward Steiner, the noted author and lecturer will speak on "Americanization or Alienization?" Dr. Graham Taylor of Chicago Commons, often heard in Appleton with great appre-

Chinese Women Face Slow Evolution, Students Aver

Chinese women are not as active nor as sociable as American women according to Pre-Shou Yang, Yin-Pu-Yang, Ping-Jisu Tu and Tates Wang, the four Chinese students enrolled at Lawrence. In ancient times it was considered a great virtue for a woman to never leave her home, but in recent times, this idea has been revolutionized, and a great many girls and women are attending higher institutions of learning in China, they said. Peking University was founded for centuries by men only until recent years. The rules neither barred nor admitted women, just ignored them, so girls have been attending for the past few years, said Mr. Tu.

"Chinese women in the great commercial centers are adopting the European style of dress," declared Mr. Tu. American dress is an adjustment to environment and tradition, they believe. The Chinese lady is more modest in dress, always being completely covered, save her arms and hands. She never allows her hair to be cut. Mr. Tu said he only knew of one Chinese girl whose hair was cut short.

Labor and business is considered a disgrace in China. One never sees a lady clerk, for instance. Even male students are just beginning to help support themselves, declared Mr. Wang.

The women of China will eventually realize woman suffrage, the students declare, but only after a long time. The women of China have, however, played an important part in its history. There are many heroines of the Chinese revolution, according to Mr. Yang.

U. S. TRACTOR CO. ENLARGING PLANT

New Neenah Concern Starts Work on Two Additional Buildings.

Neenah.—U. S. Tractor & Machinery company are starting operations on two additional buildings for the U. S. Tractor & Machinery company here.

These factory buildings will be of the same high class construction as the original unit. The walls will be of brick with steel sash and Fenestra glass, the roof supported by steel trusses without any posts to interrupt a clear floor of cement. The steel trusses and sash have already been ordered and are expected to be on the ground as soon as the foundations and walls are ready to receive them. The work will be rushed and it is expected that the buildings will be enclosed by November 15. Two railroad sidings are being brought in at the same time to serve these buildings.

One of the factory units now starting will be a machine shop 200 feet long, the other will be a 75 foot unit extending the present factory building and will be mainly for final inspection, testing and painting departments.

The second story of the office building, which doubles the office facilities, is being completed and furnished this week.

These additional buildings are made necessary to provide increased capacity necessary to take care of the demand for Uncle Sam Tractors and Harris Governor Pulleys. Another reason being the addition of the Uncle Sam, Jr., a smaller size of tractor built in the same design as the Uncle Sam 26-30 and in the same high quality and completeness of equipment. The bringing out of this size of tractor is in accordance with the original plans of the company to gradually build up a big line of power farming machinery that will properly serve the different conditions and different sizes of farms in various parts of the world and to make the line particularly attractive to the best class of dealers and distributors.

The erection of the present buildings and the arrangement of these additional facilities are entirely in accordance with the original plans of the company when it purchased its property on Sixth street and built the original units in the spring of 1915. It is planned to build still other units next year and it would seem that the tractor company had carefully laid plans, which are being carried out according to schedule, even in spite of the various obstacles which have existed during the present year, particularly in the case of the exceptionally high shipping conditions.

BLIND CAMPAIGN IS NOT ENDORSED

Chamber of Commerce Rescinds Approval of State Campaign.

Appleton people who have been receiving letters from the Badger State Advancement Association of the Blind, Milwaukee, asking for contributions for building and equipping a "Light-house" or home for the blind, are being misled by the statement on the bottom of the letter that the movement is endorsed by the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, according to Hugh C. Corbett, managing director of the chamber.

Because of dissatisfaction with the way the money was raised here and the charge that too large a portion of the total collection was needed to defray expenses of collection, the local chamber rescinded its endorsement of the campaign here several weeks ago.

Statements that the chamber is still endorsing the movement are positively misleading, Mr. Corbett said.

Investigation of the association's method was started when it was found that one of the women solicitors here was living lavishly in one of the city's best hotels and was spending money freely. She was finally questioned by a newspaper representative as to the amount of money she received for her work and promised to make a report, but left town immediately and nothing has been heard from her.

The matter was taken up with the chamber of commerce and correspondence with the association headquarters in Milwaukee showed that she was to receive 20 per cent of the gross collections and that the organizer of the campaign, a Milwaukee man, was to receive 20 per cent of the gross collections. After some difficulty a report was received, indicating that "because of unfavorable weather conditions," the tag day here netted only $227.53 and that $1,452 was collected from individuals and business houses.

The statement that the weather on "tag day" was unfavorable was found to be wrong and that the day was very pleasant and that there was a sufficient number of taggers to carry on the work.

The chamber became dissatisfied with the reports and the arrangement and rescinded its endorsement.

Miss Elsie Ehke and Oscar Ehke left on Saturday for Wisconsin, where they will spend the week-end with their parents.

Escaped an Operation

There is nothing in the world a woman so much fears as a surgical operation. Often they are necessary, but often not; and many have been avoided by the timely use of that good old-fashioned root and herb remedy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If you are suffering from some dread ailment peculiar to your sex, why not profit by the experience of these two women whose letters follow?

These Two Women Saved from Operations.

Cedar Rapids, Ia.—"After the birth of my last child I had such painful spells they would unfit me entirely for my housework. I suffered for months and the doctor said that my trouble was organic ulcers and I would have to have an operation. That was an awful thing to me, with a young baby and four other children, so one day I thought of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and how it had helped me years before and I decided to try it again. I took five bottles of Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and since then I have been a well woman, able to take care of my house and family without any trouble or a day's pain. I am ready and thankful to swear by your medicine any time. I am forty-four years old and have not had a day's illness of any kind for three years."—Mrs. H. Koenig, 617 Ellis Blvd, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Sandusky, Ohio.—"After the birth of my baby I had organic trouble. My doctor said it was caused by too heavy lifting and I would have to have an operation. I would not consent to an operation and let it go for over a year, having my sister do my work for me as I was not able to walk. One day my aunt came to see me and told me about your medicine. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and they have cured me. Now I do my own housework, washing and ironing and sewing for my family and also do sewing for other people. I still take a bottle of Vegetable Compound every spring for a tonic. I recommend your medicine to others who have troubles similar to mine and you can use my letter if you wish."—Mrs. PAUL PAPERFUSE, 1325 Stone St., Sandusky, Ohio.

HIGH GRIDDERS DEFEAT WAUSAU BY 25-7 SCORE

Appleton Tears Through Lum-berjack Line for Big Gains
Saturday Afternoon.

LOSE CHANCES TO SCORE

Locals Approach Wausau Lines
Three Times Without Crossing Goal.

Depending almost entirely on the line plunging type of football, despite the heavy front wall presented by the enemy, Appleton high school defeated Wausau at Lawrence field Saturday afternoon, 25 to 7, before a large crowd. Wausau made its lone touchdown with only a minute more to play on a series of forward passes and gains through the line. The score was made when Ziebell tossed the pigskin over the goal line to Liljquist. Wausau captain, Briese and Courtney made the three Appleton touch downs and Briese kicked one goal, Roach missing three attempts.

Appleton got its first marker in the second quarter when Briese went over from the three yard line on a plunge after the ball had been carried from the 20 yard line where it was recovered on a fumble by Wausau.

The second touchdown came in the third quarter, Briese carrying the ball over from the one yard line. The third marker was also scored by Briese who intercepted a Wausau pass on the Wausau 30 yard line and raced to the goal.

A forward pass, Jacobson to Courtney, gave Appleton its last marker in the final quarter. Briese kicked goal after that touchdown.

Appleton had several chances to score but Jacobson's persistency in sending his men over the line when Wausau was battling in the shadows of its own goal posts cost the scores. The ball was carried to the enemy's five yard line twice, only to lose it on downs. Wausau also lost a chance to score by failing to resort to open plays when near the Appleton line.

Jones and Roach played stellar games for Appleton. Briese especially distinguishing himself. The fullback reeled off several excellent gains over the line and showed his skill as an open field runner on several occasions. Roach was a marked man but he managed to evade the stubborn Wausau defense for several good gains.

Jacobson carried the ball well but his generalship was had on several occasions. The team has several good open plays in its repertoire which could have been used to advantage when the Wausau goal was threatened but Jake called for line plunges and Wausau held. He finally got away from those tactics, however, and touchdowns came frequently.

Bonini, Appleton's monster guard, played a fair game, his immense bulk making him a difficult opponent for Wausau to negotiate. He broke thru the line in the last quarter and threw a Wausau runner for a substantial loss.

Bloomer played a good game on the offense but was frequently boxed in while on the defensive. Courtney, despite his light weight, made a creditable showing in the back field.

The Appleton line, outwreigned considerably, gave the Wausau forwards plenty of opposition and managed to plug big holes for the Appleton backs while on the offensive. The team looked good and with a few more week's practice will be fit to battle the best in the state.

Wausau kicked to Appleton but the ball was fumbled and went to the enemy. The line held and Wausau lost the ball. Appleton started a march toward the goal line but was halted after the two first downs were made and Wausau got the ball on its own 10 yard line. On the second play Liljquist caught a long forward pass and ran 60 yards to the Appleton 30 yard line. Wausau punted to Appleton's four yard line and Appleton immediately punted back to the 40 yard line where Wausau lost the ball on downs. Two first downs carried the ball to the 20 yard line, where it was lost on downs. An exchange of punts gave Appleton the advantage. The pigskin was advanced to the six yard line where Wausau held and got the ball, punting back to the middle of the field.

At the beginning of the second quarter Appleton carried the ball to the Wausau 12 yard line where it was again lost on downs. Wausau's punt was carried back to the 30 yard line and a steady march resulted in the first touchdown.

Appleton was going strong when the half ended, with Wausau on the defensive on its own 25 yard line.

Appleton kicked off to start the third quarter. Ziebell tearing through the center local team for a 50 yard run to Appleton's 40 yard line. Briese caught him from the back after he had passed every Appleton defender and faced an open field to the goal.

Wausau lost the ball on Appleton's 23 yard line and then the locals made six first downs in succession, carrying the ball to the two yard line from where Briese went over for the second touchdown.

The third marker came two minutes later when Briese intercepted a Wausau pass and ran 30 yards to the goal. Appleton had the ball on its own 18 yard line when the last quarter opened. Wausau held and Roach punted.

nearly to the Wausau goal. Wausau punted out of danger but Appleton gained 30 yards on the exchange. Two first downs put the ball in the shadow of the Wausau posts. Two tries at the line failed to gain and then Jacobson started to forward passes. Second attempt resulting in a touchdown when Courtney caught the ball back of the goal line.

Wausau took on new life after that and a series of brilliant passes carried the ball to Appleton's 10 yard line. Here Bonini almost killed the visitor's hopes by tearing through and throwing a runner for a loss. On the last play Ziebell chucked the ball to Liljquist, standing behind the line.

The last minute of the game was played in the middle of the field, with Appleton carrying the ball.

LAWRENCE BURIED UNDER 60-0 SCORE

Badger Gridiron Machine Flat-tens Blue and White at Madison Saturday.

Madison—Lawrence was humbled under the stupendous score of 60 to 0 Saturday afternoon when they met the University of Wisconsin eleven in the first game of the 1920 season at Camp Randall.

The Badger machine, never hindered at any stage of the game, went on one grand march after another through the ranks of the visitors until the last whistle. Lawrence made their downs but three times during the entire game, failed to gain on every forward pass and held off their conquerors only by the punting of Pond, fullback.

In the first seven minutes of play, Elliott ran 70 yards around left end for the first touchdown, after Lawrence had failed to gain and was forced to punt to Wisconsin. Davey failed at goal, making the score 6 to 0.

Lawrence received, but after a few vain attempts to gain, was forced to punt. The Badger backs went through again and again for large gains. Sudst attempted a drop but the ball fell far short and was taken out to the twenty yard line in Lawrence's possession. After failing again to gain, Lawrence punted, Wisconsin returning to Lawrence's forty-five yard line. The quarter ended with Wisconsin on Lawrence's fifteen yard line. The second quarter had scarcely opened before Elliott carried the ball over again for a touchdown and made the score 13 to 0.

After the second score, Coach Richards played many substitutes, giving nearly every second string man an opportunity to perform. Williams, substitute, halfback, played a whirlwind game, going over the line for three of Wisconsin's touchdowns.

"Shorty" Barr of Milwaukee, substituting for Davey at quarter in the second quarter, picked a forward out of the air, and went over for a touchdown. Elliott, Williams, Rundt and Anderson, another substitute, took turns at adding to the score.

Each kickoff was a repetition of the one preceding. Lawrence received, attempted vainly to pierce Wisconsin's line for two or three downs, and punted. Then would follow a triumphant march of the Badgers down the field for a score.

for Local Victory.

The highly touted Gordon Union Giants, colored baseball players, did not live up to the reputation as "major league" ball players when they were defeated, 4 to 1, by the Brandts before 2,000 fans, the largest crowd of the season, at Brandt park Sunday afternoon. The game was slow and listless, hardly what was expected.

The best thing about the Giants team was their pitching. Smith and Morgan held the Brandts to six safe blows, but eight errors gave Appleton four runs. The team's fielding was far below the standard of the Fox River Valley league.

On the other hand the blacks hit Schultz hard, garnering eight hits, including four two base blows and a home run, but sparkling support saved him. The team fielded splendidly back of the elongated hurler but failed miserably at the bat.

Bayer was Appleton's hitting star, soaking up a two base blow and two singles in four times up. He was caught off the bases four times, however. Reed, colored third baseman, batted out two doubles and a single in three times up and Cameron got a double and a home run.

The visitors got a hit in the first inning after one man was out. Haven doubling to left. He was caught trying to steal third and the last man grounded out to Marty Lamers, who was playing second base for the locals.

Spies started the Appleton half by beating out a bunt along the third base line and went to third when Ewing, colored first baseman, threw to center field in an effort to catch him on second. Bayer got a life on first when Gordon hooked a grounder, but Spies was held at third where he died when Lamers hit into a double play.

Appleton got two runs in the second inning on two errors, a sacrifice and a hit. Murphy got a life when the shortstop threw wide to first on his grounder. O'Connor sacrificed him second from where he scored when Reed, playing third, booted Priebe's hot grounder, Priebe reaching second before the ball was recovered. Pahlstrom fled out and then Schultz picked the first ball for a sacrifice to right, scoring Priebe. Spies fanned for the last out.

Appleton scored again in the third inning. Dayer doubled for an opener and went to third when Reed kicked Lamers' grounder to third. Bayer was caught off the sack while he was watching Lamers steal second. Lamers went to third when Ewing chucked wide in an effort to catch him off second, and then scored while Sylvester was being retired at first.

Schultz was saved from disaster in the fourth inning by a wonderful one hand catch by Priebe. After one man was out Reed picked his second double and went to third while Singer was being retired. Gordon slammed the ball to short centerfield but Priebe picked it off his shoelaps with one hand after a long run, preventing a score.

The Giants scored their only run in the sixth inning when Dameron slammed the ball to the centerfield fence and the ball rolled underneath, giving the hitter a home run.

Things looked bad for Schultz in the eighth inning. A double by Dameron started the fire works but luck played in Brandt's hands. Morgan, who relieved Smith on the mound, was out when he interfered with the play on his grounder at the plate and the next two were easy outs.

Appleton got men on in every inning but could not score until the eighth. Lamers started by rapping the pellet into the centerfielder's hands but the gentleman obligingly dropped it. Sylvester fanned and Murphy singled, sending Lamers to second. O'Connor fled out and then Priebe soaked the ball to Gordon at first base and he dropped it, Lamers scoring.

The visitors' half of the ninth started with a double and was followed by a single. Singer tried to score on Gordon's blow to right but was caught at the plate. Schultz retired the next batters without trouble.

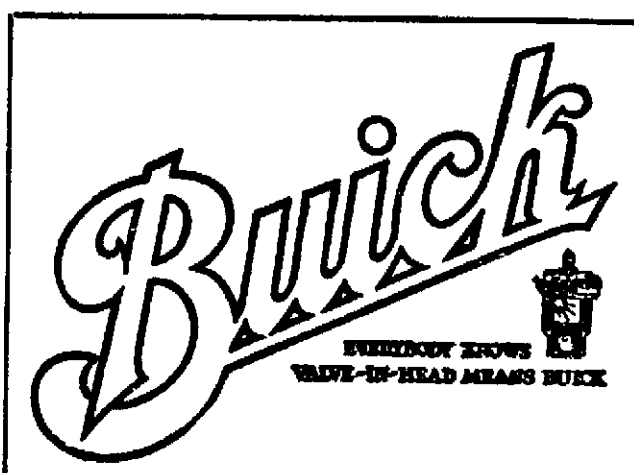

OSHKOSH WINNER OF STATE TITLE

Valley League Champs Defeat
Waukesha in Second Game of Series.

Oshkosh — After almost tossing the game away in the second and fourth innings with a bad case of stage fright, the Overalls came back in the fifth and seventh, and took the second deciding game of the state championship from Waukesha, 7 to 6. Stork started in the box for Waukesha but was driven from the mound in the fifth and was supplanted by Brimfield who gave way to Hauser in the seventh. Hansor, the Brewer star, tied the batting with a triple and two singles. While sliding into second in the fourth inning Leopold, Waukesha's third baseman, broke his right leg.

SUGAR PRICES NOT TO GO UP AGAIN

Speculators in Sweet Stuff Are Only Ones Worrying Much Now.

(By George B. Waters)
(Special to Post-Crescent)
Washington, D. C.—The trials and tribulations of sugar consumers, brought on by the war, and added to by profiteers and speculators, are ended forever!

In other words, sugar prices will not go up again this year or next year. There is plenty of sweetening to go around and the United States will have more sugar next year than the people can use. In fact, the whole world will have an abundant supply.

Profiteers, speculators and hoarders are doing the worrying. They still have much of the sugar and are going to sell it for less than they paid. Of course, millions have been made in sugar, but now those same fellows are going to drop some of their ill-gotten coin. The wholesale price has dropped from 25½ cents to 14½ cents the last few weeks and it is sure to stay down and even go lower.

expected in the way of prices for the remainder of this year and for the next year. The 1919 Cuban crop just closing is estimated at 3,750,000 tons with 520,000 tons yet to be shipped. Last year's production was estimated at 3,972,000 tons. The total world's production of cane sugar available during the calendar year for 1920 is estimated to be 11,800,000 tons, as compared with 11,886,000 tons the year before, and best sugar 3,346,000 tons as compared with 4,403,000 last year.

The world's production for this year is thus only about one and one-quarter million tons less than last year. But the United States has received more than her share of the crop, as is shown by total receipts to Sept. 16 at all ports of 2,537,891 tons as compared to 2,239,859 tons last year, and exports since Jan. 1 have been about the same as last year. And it is stated that the European deliveries are already made, so that the United States has the 520,000 tons yet unshipped in Cuba to draw upon. Altogether somewhat more than 4,000,000 tons have been received or are available for consumption in America this year. The country's total consumption in 1919 was about 4,068,000 tons and in 1918, 3,496,000. The year's supply for the United States is thus approximately equal to last year's.

More Sugar At Ports
The stocks of sugar on hand at the ports are placed by Willett and Gray's Sept. 16 report at 121,556 tons, as compared with 87,552 tons at the same date last year.

The estimates for next year's crop are beginning to appear and show an increase of almost 50 per cent over the present year for Europe and the United States. Cuban estimates are not in, but an increase is likely, and certainly no decrease is expected.

But, besides all this sugar, there is an invisible supply. Large surplus stocks are still in the hands of manufacturers and wholesalers and others. And large supplies are stored by speculators and used to secure loans. Authorities say there is more sugar in this country now than ever before.

SCHNEIDER GETS IN CONTEST FOR STATE ASSEMBLY

Farmer-Labor League Endorses Union Leader as Assembly Candidate.

SUPPORT THE STRIKERS

James Thompson Is Urged to Enter U. S. Senatorial Campaign.

George J. Schneider of Appleton is endorsed as candidate for assembly in the first assembly district of Outagamie county on the independent ticket at the meeting of Fourteenth Senatorial Dist. Unit of Organized Farm and Labor League at the Trades and Labor Council's hall Saturday night. About two hundred members were present. The attendance of farmers was especially large.

A resolution pledging the support of the league to the striking employees of the Eagle Manufacturing company, was adopted. The resolution, introduced by Helm Hussner, representative of the machinists' local union, was as follows:

"Whereas, The Eagle Manufacturing has been trying to reduce the compensation of its machine shop employees forced said employees to use the only weapon at their command, namely, to strike, in order maintain their present wage and shop conditions, be it.

"Resolved, That we, the members of the Farmers-Labor League of the Fourteenth Senatorial district do hereby condemn the action of the Eagle Manufacturing company, and do hereby extend our sympathy and moral support to said strikers."

James Thompson of Crosses was unanimously endorsed as candidate for United States senator and the following telegram was sent to him:

"Dear Sir: Owing to the fact that there are thousands of voters that want to defeat Senator Lenroot for reelection on account of his utter failure to protect the interests of the people of the state, especially is this true in his support of the Esch-Cummins Law, and fearing that it will be impossible to elect any candidate now opposing him on the regular party tickets, the mindful of the fact that we are asking you to make a great sacrifice, we earnestly request you to consent to become an independent candidate on the same platform on which you sought the nomination in the primaries and assure you if you will answer this call of the voters, we will give you our unanimous support."

Thompson Saturday night filed as an independent candidate for United States senator and is now in the race. The next meeting will be held on October 16 at which time several important matters concerning election will be taken up.

COX ENCOURAGED BY WESTERN TRIP

Advisors Tell Him That Country Is Reacting to His League Appeal.

(By Herbert W. Walker.)
By United Press Leased Wire
Dayton, Ohio.—Confident his campaign has gained great momentum as the result of his month's tour of the west, Governor James M. Cox today was planning to take a brief rest before resuming his fight in the middle west and east.

Virtually every democratic leader who met him yesterday enroute from St. Louis and here today talked of "a reaction" that has commenced throughout the country within the last few weeks and claimed sentiment is changing rapidly in his favor. As a result of his western tour, Cox is pinning his hope for victory on the league issue and on the progressive vote. In every one of the 238 speeches he has made he has presented the league as the only definite plan for preventing war and said today he was surprised with the response. Toward the end of his trip, he devoted nearly all of his speeches to the league.

Cox today was to meet a delegation of the league of women voters, headed by Mrs. Maud Wood Park.

Tomorrow he expects to go to Columbus and Wednesday night start his invasion of Kentucky, Tennessee, Indiana and Illinois.

The fleur-de-lis, national flower of France, was highly valued by the ancients for medicinal purposes.

The gathering was attended by about 100 officers of the valley courts including the chief rangers, deputy rangers and members of courts from Green Bay and Fond du Lac. The officers are President Arnold A. Wmelenberg, Green Bay; vice president John Morgan, Appleton; secretary Harold Kuipers, De Pere; treasurer O. P. PUTH LEADS SHOOTERS IN SUNDAY'S CONTEST

Georg Puth won the weekly shoot of the Appleton road Sunday afternoon breaking 22 out of 25 targets. William Jolastek and G. L. Chamberlain tied for second place with 17 hits each. H. C. Risch finished third with 11 hits.

Several other men were on the grounds but were shooting with new guns and were unable to get among the leaders.

A challenge to the Milwaukee county district committee is to be appointed in each county by the president and all courts are expected to have a class ready for initiation before the first of the year and another in the spring.

A lecture course will be this year's educational feature. Speakers will be chosen to appear before the valley courts speaking on popular subjects.

The president was also instructed to appoint a special committee on athletic which is to urge all courts to organize basketball and bowling leagues and a Forester baseball league for next year. The Fox River valley will be divided into districts with the larger ones as their center. The courts in its vicinity will play elimination tournaments in the various games and each district winner will be entered in a contest to decide the valley champion. Other social programs are also to be conducted the nature of which will be decided later.

An informal banquet served in the club rooms followed the business session. The officials present were quite impressed with the achievement of the Appleton court in acquiring its building and equipping it so completely for recreation purposes. Other courts were urged to work along the same line. Among the state officials who attended were George T. O'Brien, Fond du Lac, state chief ranger and John A. Kuipers, De Pere, state trustee.

COLLEGE PRESENTS BIG POSSIBILITIES

Beloit College Teacher Tells Lawrence Students Why They Are in School.

Prof. Burr of Beloit College addressed the student body of Lawrence College at chapel Monday morning on "Possibilities."

Education has never been purchased or inherited, but has been gained through hard work, said Mr. Burr. "The test of your education is not in knowledge of books or in classroom recitations. College means the possibilities of cooperation of working one with another. You may think you are here for the purpose of securing an education but there is a greater purpose. The reason that the students are here the faculty is here and that the equipment is here."

is to find the possibilities in these sons and daughters. You are in a contest to reveal what is in you.

When Mr. Grifield was in Williams College, he found that there was one young man who always surpassed him in mathematics. He discovered that this student always studied a half hour longer than he did so Mr. Grifield started in to study a half hour longer and he found that this student no longer revealed higher grades than he in mathematics. Later when Mr. Grifield became the president of the United States he sent for this classmate to be the secretary of the treasury.

"The other day in France, in air contest was held for the purpose of finding the possibilities for speed in the aeroplane. In football contests one has in mind the glorification of state championship but there is a deeper meaning the possibilities involved in the combination of brawn and brain. Besides the possibilities from a physical and mental standpoint there are those from a spiritual side also. I congratulate you my friends on the possibilities which are before you."

TOURISTS FIND WAY TO BEAT RAILROAD RATES

Helena, Mont.—Because of the action of the Montana railroad commission in refusing to increase passenger fares within the state to the level set by the interstate commerce commission, through travelers are finding a way to "beat" the railroads.

Thrifty passengers are buying their tickets to the first town within Montana's borders. There they hop off and quickly purchase another ticket to the last town in Montana on their route and then they return to their destination. The railroads have appealed to the interstate commerce commission. But while the controversy between the railroads and the state commission wages hot, the travelers are reaping full benefit of the difference in rates.

SMOKE FROM MARSH FIRES COVERS CITY

Marshes Are Burning Near New London, Kashena and Marshfield.

Smoke from marsh fires north and west of Appleton this morning nearly obscured the sun and caused much wondering comment. The smoke began to fade away towards noon.

A fire has been burning for two days in a swamp near Mousanto hill, a large elevation near New London. The high wind Sunday afternoon is said to have fanned the flames to alarming heights and the haze traveled with great rapidity. Reports this noon were to the effect that the residence of farm property is not endangered.

Toilettes declined this morning that a fire of old stump land near Kashena is on fire and that the smoke is so thick that it is impossible to get through. They declare that this smoke is carried as far south as Appleton.

A large swamp is on fire near Marshfield travelers said today. Passenger train crews were obliged to light lamps in their coaches while passing through the fire area because the smoke was so thick that the sun was almost entirely obscured.

Fires have been raging in forests north of Green Bay for several days. The sun a week ago Sunday ignited the fires somewhat but they were never entirely extinguished and it is said they are raging again.

HOLD FOREMAN FOR PADDING PAYROLL

Alleged Effort to Loot Milwaukee County Road Payroll Is Nipped.

Milwaukee—An alleged effort to loot the county highway commission payroll was nipped according to District Attorney Winifred C. Zabel with the arrest of Daniel Hogan, a foreman alleged to have falsified payroll accounts of his men.

Hogan however is said to have been caught in his first offense. District Attorney Zabel declared that one of the men in Hogan's gang of workmen named Louis Strobel became ill but that Hogan pretended to take the man from the payroll keeping the check for his payroll from the county treasurer's office.

The district attorney alleged further that Hogan went to Strobel's home and had him endorse the check. He cashed the check and used the proceeds for himself. Mr. Zabel charges.

The district attorney ordered a comprehensive canvass of all county highway payrolls.

Hogan has been an employee of the county for nine years. He was to be arraigned in district court Wednesday.
